Neal Buffaloe – James Bales

LR radio station (1966)

- Buffaloe: “Truth” is another word that perhaps we should avoid more than we do. And of course like many other things, is relative, tentative. Truth to the scientist literally does not exist, and, strictly speaking, I would perhaps back off from the use of it.
- Bales: Can error exist? Can error exist? There can be no error without a standard of truth.
- Buffaloe: So?

Neal Buffaloe – James Bales

LR radio station (1966)

- Bales: Then this leaves us in a sea that we are talking about something that is neither true nor false...
- Buffaloe: I use the word “truth” I think in a valid sense. We can say it is the truth that we are here tonight, but the philosopher might deny this if he were of that school. Or it is the truth that George Washington lived, but some historians might take issue with you.
- Bales: I have had people to deny I was there, and yet they continued the argument with me. And if I’d stepped on their toe they would have hollered.
- Buffaloe: Well, mind you I think we have to deal with a rational world; at least we have to act as if it’s here...
